

Dear Sir or Madam,

Although I am usually slow to embrace new technology, I love my XM radio. I can listen to it in my car and at work. Since I cannot get a good signal on either FM or AM radio at work, this allows me to listen to beautiful music or keep up with the news.

Since I have a 25 mile commute (each way) on heavily traveled Atlanta roadways, I am so looking forward to the coming XM traffic report for Atlanta. It's painful to be forced to listen to obnoxious local commercials and listen to endless, pointless "banter" before getting a traffic or weather report. And then, it's usually too late to plot an alternate course.

The NAB should try to be more competitive. It should screen it's local DJs, try to limit the most obnoxious commercials, and improve the reception inside buildings, that's the way to crush XM radio--not by lobbying the legislature. That's not the American way.

That's my opinion and I'm sticking to it. By the way, I'm glad the FCC is trying to deal with trashy DJs and the owners that allow them to spew their garbage. I don't listen to them and I would never buy their products, but it doesn't exactly improve the morality of the people of the United States. I look forward to the imposition of more fines until it becomes unprofitable to be so uncouth. Jeanne
